

Lottie's Bug Diary

Based on the book The Little Wave by Pip Harry

In The Little Wave, Lottie knows many interesting facts about insects (“Did you know cockroaches can survive for a month without eating, live for a week without their heads and hold their breath for forty minutes?”). She wants to be an entomologist, is always on the lookout for new species and keeps a diary of the interesting bugs she finds. Use the template below to start your own diary. You might end up discovering a new species yourself!

Instructions: look for bugs inside or out in the yard. Use a magnifying glass if you have one. Take some time to observe the bug and write down your findings. Later, research to correctly identify your bug and learn interesting facts about it.

MY BUG

Number: _____

Type or Description: _____

Where and when it was found: _____

Number of legs: _____ Colours: _____ Wings? Y/N

Add mm and cm marks below to create a ruler then mark the size of your insect:

Insert a photo or sketch your bug:

Other observations about my bug: _____

Interesting facts I researched: _____
